Government reopens

Budget Showdown

N.Y. senator urges cuts in social tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., urged the Senate Tuesday to approve legislation cutting Social Security taxes, saying the surplus in the trust fund, now above $100 billion, should not be used to finance other government programs.

"These are not general revenues. They must not become sources of general revenue," Moynihan said as the Senate began debating his bill that would put Social Security on a "pay-as-you-go" basis beginning Jan. 1.

"The case for pay-as-you-go was powerful before the budget summit agreement," Moynihan said. "In my view, it is now overwhelming."

"I hope my colleagues will vote for this bill," he said. "It is transparently just, overwhelmingly popular, economically sound and, as a matter of public trust, an

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush reopened the federal government Tuesday by signing a temporary spending bill, and voiced a willingness to negotiate a possible tax increase for the rich in a new budget deal.

"What we have to do is get together with the (congressional) leaders and see if we can reach a formula," Bush said, adding that he might permit some tax rates to rise if Congress agrees to cut capital gains taxes.

Bush and Congress have long been at odds over capital gains, but they came together early Tuesday on an emergency spending bill that ended a three-day government shutdown.

The president signed the measure at 6:07 a.m., just hours after Congress gave final passage to the bill that will keep the government in full operation through Oct. 19.

By then, the White House and Congress hope to agree on a fiscal 1991 budget and a plan to reduce the federal deficit by $500 billion over the next five years, and by $40.1 billion this year.

"That's where the real battle will come," said Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H.

Bush told a White House news conference. "We've been pulling and tugging at this framework agreement for nearly five months and it's been difficult because the whole underlying problem is difficult."

He said he wanted "to assure the American people this morning that I will do everything in my power to encourage Congress as it struggles" to fill in the blanks of a sketchy budget outline, also passed by Congress early Tuesday.

Bush appeared to show a new willingness at his news conference to support higher taxes for the rich.

"If it's proper and can be worked, balanced between the capital gains rate and the income tax changes, fine, but I don't think it's fruitful here to negotiate the details (in public)," the president said.

"I'm open-minded as to some negotiations," Bush said. "That's on the table."

He said that "what we've got to do now is meet" with the House Ways and Means and the Senate Finance committees "and discuss with them quietly what we can accept."

Bush said he would be willing to accept some reduction in the so-called tax bubble, which sets tax rates for the wealthy, "but I'm not going to negotiate it here."

Congress's new plan maintains the framework of a bipartisan proposal defeated by the lawmakers last week.

That one included $135 billion in new taxes and fees and deep cuts in federal services, particularly Medicare.

Faculty Senate to review law school pay hikes

By Christina Hall
Staff Writer

The Faculty Senate voted unanimously to review the faculty salary increase plan in reaction to recent pay raises in the School of Law.

The senate resolved to form a joint committee of the Faculty Senate and Graduate Council to review the faculty salary increase plan that was adopted in 1985 by the Faculty Senate and the Graduate Council.

The motion was passed in response to the pay increases at the School of Law that included increases of more than 15 percent.

The joint committee will review the plan to find out from where the money for the salary increases came, if the appropriate procedures were followed and if money is available for faculty outside of the law school.

Donna Falvo, assistant professor at the rehabilitation institute, said the increase for the law faculty came at a time when there had been few pay increases for other University faculty. She also said that increasing the salary of only one group of faculty was demoralizing to other faculty.

"It gives the impression that some faculty are more important than others," Falvo said.

Generally, the faculty senate members do not resent or blame the law faculty for receiving a pay raise, when few other faculty were receiving a raise of more than two percent, Falvo said.

After the joint committee reviews the salary increase plan, it may find that the administration was at fault for not following the proper procedures, Falvo said.

"The good news is that this gives the impression that there is money for one college, so in the future there should be money for other colleges as well," she said.

One administrative justification for the pay increase is that the University will be able to retain and hire more faculty. Falvo said that argument could be made for any college, not only the law

The Faculty Senate also resolved to denounce silent pay raises in response to findings that some salaries, after pay raises one year, appear higher when entered for the next year without any indication of a pay raise, said Donald Paige, professor of curriculum and instruction.

The resolution stated that the silent salary increases are not part of the traditional pay raise process and are destructive to the confidence of faculty and tax payers.

Refuge workers return to jobs

By Brian Gross
Staff Writer

Employees at the Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge were not sent home Tuesday morning after reporting to work, but their schedules are only guaranteed until Oct. 19.

"We were all told to report, but we were glad we were able to stay at work," Ed Wagner said. "We've been sent home in the past, and we may on the 19th. Who knows?"

Wagner, an outdoor recreation planner from Cartersville, said refuge employees have been furloughed several times during the past 10 or 15 years.

The visitor information center was closed last weekend when Congress and President George Bush failed to reach an agreement on the budget last Friday, effectively shutting down all non-essential federal services.

A deficit reduction agreement was reached Monday and a temporary spending resolution returned federal employees to work Tuesday.

Norrel Wallace, refuge manager, said everything was back on a regular schedule, at least until Oct. 19 when the spending resolution expires.

Wallace said he thinks Congress will pass a budget by Oct. 19. The refuge was not severely impacted last weekend because most employees work Monday through Friday, Wallace said.

The visitor center was closed and an open house auto tour route was cancelled for Sunday, he said.

"It really affects visitors more than it did employees," Wallace said. "It didn't really have an impact on the refuge. It didn't affect my salary or the salaries of 27 employees."

Employees involved in protecting health and safety, such as law enforcement and water treatment services, are considered essential and were not furloughed, he said.

Neil Vincent, a refuge guide from Herrin, said he is one of the first employees furloughed because his job is not considered essential.

"I hope they do get everything straightened out," Vincent said. "I kind of liked having a four-day weekend for a while, but you can't do that without pay for that long."

Wagner said he has been through similar situations several times during the past 10 or 15 years.

"I've been through this many

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein warned Israel Tuesday to evacuate occupied Arab lands or face "quick action" to avenge the Israeli slayings of Palestinians in Jerusalem Monday.

Shortly before the statement, a senior Palestinian guerrilla leader said Saddam wants the Persian Gulf crisis resolved peacefully, provided the world links the solution to Israel's withdrawal from occupied Palestinian lands.

Baghdad Radio said Saddam's statement was read by an announcer on television and radio "for the ears of Muslems around the

Reds take 3-1 lead in NL playoffs

By Tony Mancuso
Staff Writer

Thanks to Chris Sabo's power surge and the Nasty Boys' stellar relief performances, the Cincinnati Reds own a commanding 3-1 lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League Championship Series.

Sabo hit a two-run homer in the top of the seventh inning, leading the Reds to a 5-3 victory in the fourth game of the series.

Sabo hit a 3-2 pitch from losing pitcher Bob Walk (1-1 in the series) high over the left field board, with Hal Morris on first, giving the Reds a 4-2 lead.

The Pirates threatened a comeback as Jay Bell homered off winner Jose Rijo in the bottom of the eighth to narrow the Reds' lead to 4-3. But the Reds played good defense behind left-handed reliever Randy Myers and shut the rally down.

Bobby Bonilla doubled off the top of the center field wall with one out in the eighth, but was thrown out attempting to stretch the hit into a triple.

Left fielder Eric Davis raced into center field to aid fallen center fielder Billy Hatcher, snagged the ball as it bounded back to the infield and threw a perfect strike to third base to nail Bonilla.

Barry Bonds followed with a single to right that would have surely tied the game, but the fourth assist by the Cincinnati outfield in the series ruined the Bucs' scoring chance.

The Reds scored an insurance run in the top of the ninth when Morris scored on a sacrifice fly by first baseman Paul O'Neill, who homered in the fourth inning to tie the game at 1-1.

Fireballer Rob Dibble, who prior to the game was not expected to see action, set down the side in the bottom of the ninth with two strikeouts.

Probable starters for Game 5 at 7 p.m. local time tonight are Doug Drabek for Pittsburgh and Tom Browning for Cincinnati.

The game tonight may decide who goes on to face the winner of the American League Championship Series.

The Oakland A's hold a commanding 3-0 lead over the Boston Red Sox in the ALCS, and could wrap up the series today. The A's probably will send Dave Stewart against the Sox' Roger Clemens.

Briscoe leading Salukis and nation

By Julie Autor
Staff Writer

The Salukis dig volleyball player Debbie Briscoe, and she certainly digs them.

Briscoe's 39 digs Sept. 8 against Alabama are the most in a single game in the nation so far this season.

Briscoe, a junior middle blocker from St. Charles, Mo., has consistently led the Salukis in digs. Briscoe said the best digs are the ones that are unexpected.

"Digging up ones you're not expecting to get dug are the best," Briscoe said. "It will be inches off the floor and then we'll pick it up and get it over the net and win that point."

Besides digs, Briscoe works on leadership and her mental game.

"I've made myself become a leader," Briscoe said. "I try to lead the team in what we do. I work on staying in the game mentally through the whole game. Physically, I work on doing those extra things that I need to make my game that much better."

Briscoe said those extra things include a better hitting percentage and less errors.

"My defense has come a long way," Briscoe said, "my stats show me that."

Against Arkansas State, Oct. 2, Briscoe made 34 digs and had a .244 hitting percentage. Briscoe also made 12 kills and 41 total attempts.

At the Northern Illinois Invitational Sept. 14 and 15, Briscoe was named to the All-Tournament team. Briscoe had 31 kills, hit .236 and had team-highs of 45 digs and 19 blocks during the weekend.

Against NIU Briscoe hit .400 and had eight block assists. Against the University of Illinois-Chicago, she has 16 kills, 26 digs and nine blocks.

SIUC volleyball coach Patti Hagemeier said Briscoe deserved

Oakland up 3-0 with win over Boston

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Willie Randolph, playing because of an injury to Walt Weiss, delivered two RBI singles Tuesday and Terry Steinbach scored a run by knocking the ball out of catcher Tony Pena's glove, moving the Oakland Athletics within one victory of a third straight World Series with a 4-1 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

Randolph capped a two-run fourth inning and prolonged a two-run sixth, rallying Oakland to a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven American League playoff. With a victory in Game 4 Wednesday (3:15 p.m. EDT), Oakland can wrap up its second playoff sweep of Boston in three years.

Mike Moore, who lost three of his last four regular-season decisions, allowed one run in six innings, shrugging off Tom Brunansky's second-inning sacrifice fly to notch his fourth triumph in as many postseason starts. Mike Boddicker took the loss.

Dennis Eckersley pitched the ninth for his second save of the series and his sixth in Oakland's last seven playoff victories over Boston.

Never has a major-league club rebounded from a 3-0 deficit to take a postseason series. Such a rally seems all the more improbable against Oakland, which has outscored Boston 17-3 in the three games.

Oakland has set a major-league mark with 20 league championship series victories. It has also won nine straight postseason games, while Boston has lost a record seven straight in the playoffs.

Randolph's contributions illustrated the club's depth, while Steinbach's charge symbolized the beating that Boston has absorbed.

Randolph, whose first playoff experience came 15 years ago with the Pittsburgh Pirates, started neither of the first two games. But with Weiss out at shortstop with a knee injury, he played second base with Mike Gallego switching to short.

The adjustments made virtually no difference. For the third straight game, Boston took a 1-0 lead, only to be overtaken and then buried in the later innings. Oakland even managed to turn a Red Sox defensive gem into an edge.

With Oakland holding a 2-1 lead in the sixth, Boston shortstop Luis Rivera committed an error on Harold Baines' grounder to the hole. Left fielder Mike Greenwell leapt against the left-field wall to rob Mark McGwire, but Baines alertly tagged and took second.

Childress named Gateway Golfer of the Week

By Jeff Bobo
Staff Writer

Saluki women's golfer Anne Childress, a junior in speech communication, was named Golfer of the Week in the Gateway Conference Tuesday.

This is the third time Childress has received gateway honors, once last year and once her freshman year.

"I'm thrilled to get this honor again," Childress said. "It will really motivate me for the Lady Kat Invitational this weekend."

Last week at the Memphis State Invitational Childress broke into the 70s twice for the first time this season. She averaged 78.3 in three rounds of play and finished in an 18th-place out of 73 golfers in individual competition.

"I started off slow at the

Women golfers head to Lady Kat

By Jeff Bobo
Staff Writer

The SIUC women's golf team will find the same caliber of competition at the Lady Kat Invitational at the University of Kentucky that they encountered at Memphis State last week.

"Most of the same teams we faced last week at Memphis when we finished 9th out of 15 will be at the Lady Kat," Saluki women's golf coach Diane Daugherty said. "I'd be happy if we finished in the top 50 percent this weekend."

This year the Lady Kat will feature some of the top Division I teams in the nation including Kentucky, Illinois, Alabama, North Carolina, Missouri, Vanderbilt, Mississippi State, and Michigan State.

"The level of competition we're playing will help the team improve a lot," Daugherty said. "The team is getting better and better, but they're still young."

Also featured at the Lady Kat will be the top two Division II teams in the nation last year, Longwood and Rollins.

The Rollins women's golf coach Iris Snyder agrees that the competition at the Lady Kat will be some of the toughest in the country.

"Most of the teams are very tough," Snyder said. "If I were a gambling woman I'd have to say Kentucky has the best chances of winning the tournament on their home beginning of the season, but the last two tournaments my game has really picked up," Childress said.

In the Salukis' first tournament of the season, the Cyclone Classic at Iowa State, Childress finished tied for 36 with a two round average of 86.5.

Childress replaced former Saluki Lisa Johnson, who graduated last year, as the team's No. 1 player this season.

"It's tough for a junior to come in and replace a senior for the No. 1 spot on the team," Saluki women's golf coach Diane Daugherty said. "I think Anne felt a little pressure this year in the first tournament and that was reflected in her scores."

In the second tournament of the season, the Illinois State Invitational in Normal, Childress improved to a 15th-place tie overall and had a two-round average of 82.5.

"Anne's scores have really improved since the first tournament this season at Iowa State," Daugherty said. "I think she is getting used to the pressure of being in the No. 1 spot and is playing the way she knows how."

Shamir claims Palestinians exploit deaths of Moslems

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir accused Palestinian leaders Tuesday of exploiting the deaths of 21 Moslems for their "malicious purposes" and vowed violence would not alter Israeli policy. "The rioters paid a high price in human life, but this is exactly what their leaders and activists are striving for," Shamir said during the dedication of a religious center in the Israel-occupied West Bank. Security forces were on alert throughout Israel and the occupied territories Tuesday as thousands of Arabs quietly mourned.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — The judge hearing the obscenity trial of three members of 2 Live Crew withstood Tuesday an attempt by prosecutors to remove her because she is a former student of the rap group's lead attorney. Broward County Circuit Court Judge George Brescher denied the request to disqualify fellow Judge June Johnson, saying her relationship with defense attorney Bruce Rogow was not close enough to warrant her dismissal. Brescher also said the prosecution motion should have been filed 10 days before the trial.

"Mr. Miller did at one time intend to use (his lover) as an asset of the FBI and retire from the FBI in a blaze of glory," U.S. District Court Judge Robert Takasugi said. "But in a battle of wills, Mr. Miller finally succumbed, betraying perhaps and betraying his country." Miller, found guilty of all six counts against him, faces a maximum of life in prison.

Economist: Spending not solution to education woes

URBANA (UPI) — A number of studies indicate increased spending on primary and secondary public schools is not likely to better student performance nor spur economic growth, a University of Illinois economist said Tuesday. While education is sometimes viewed as essential for economic development, John B. Crisfield, an assistant professor of agricultural economics, contended the linkage between public spending on education and the performance of the economy might have been overstated by those seeking more school funds.

State employees spend $50 million on travel

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — A state report released Tuesday shows Illinois' state government employees spent more than $50 million on travel last year, including $13.5 million on out-of-state trips for work. The analysis by Auditor General Robert Cronson found Southern Illinois University and the University of Illinois had the largest totals of state agencies for out-of-state travel. Among specific agencies, SIU employees were allowed to spend $2.2 million in state funds in fiscal 1990, a 12-month period that lasted from July 1, 1989, to June 30 of this year.

Play deals with topic of childhood incest, denial

By Melynda Findlay
Staff Writer

Lynn Guido, graduate playwright student, wrote her latest play to satisfy the creative component of her MFA thesis requirements, and to pass along an important message.

Conceived through hours of research, "When Knights Betray Their Dreamers" is a play that deals with the repression and denial felt by childhood incest victims.

The play asserts that children must be informed about incest so they will know their rights are being violated, even when a perpetrator tells the victim that such behavior is acceptable.

"Knights" will be presented by the Phoenix Rising Production Company at 7:30 tonight and on Oct. 13, 14, 19 and 21 in the Little Grassy Lodge at Touch of Nature.

"I started about a year and a half ago just writing scenes about crimes against children," Guido said. "They were in different places, different times and used all different kids. 'Knights' grew from that."

By reading articles and personal interviews with incest survivors, Guido discovered that about 50 percent of women over the age of 18 have experienced some form of sexual abuse in their childhood, but they just don't know it.

Through a process called selective amnesia, victims deny that anything has happened until it completely is blocked out of their memories.

"That is what the play is about," Guido said. "This is a problem because the repressed memories can lead to destructive behaviors later in life, like food addiction and alcohol and drug abuse."

The play focuses on an adult woman named Lee, played by Thea Karch, who represses her memories of childhood incest. At age 30 Lee's memories begin "fighting to get someone to listen to them," Guido said.

Lee's memories of her own experiences are manifested through two other characters at different ages; Ellie, 16, played by Dawn Roberts, and Lisa, 7, played by Andrea Washburn.

"I want to make people aware that incest is a predominant issue in America that needs to be dealt with," Guido said. "When a child is abused by an adult whom they trust and depend, they are denied the right to believe that incest is wrong."

Guido graduated from Belmont Abbey College with a degree in recreation therapy and is working on her Master of Fine Arts degree at SIUC.

Stage company christens 'Knights'

By Melynda Findlay
Staff Writer

The Phoenix Rising Stage Company finally has decided to hit "the big time" in Carbondale.

Phoenix, a company of professional actors, has been together since May of this year.

"Our unofficial first production was 'Marat Sade' at the Student Center last spring, but that was before the name was attached," said Danny Herbst, executive manager of the company. "After that, we created an official partnership."

The company's first official production as a partnership is "When the Knights Betray Their Dreamers," by SIUC Master of Fine Arts candidate Lynn Guido.

The partnership consists of Carbondale community members Pete Housman, Norman Pack, Charlene Kozora and Herbst.

Although Phoenix Rising currently has open auditions for each show, the goal of the company is to become a repertory troupe, with actors auditioning at the beginning of the season and performing with the company throughout the season in different plays.

"Knights," a play which deals with the repression and denial experienced by victims of childhood incest, is the first in the Phoenix Company's "Issues of the '90s" performance series.

"These are plays that will primarily deal with controversial issues that affect families and individuals," Housman said. "We hope to do at least one of these plays every season."

The group already has planned a second "Issues of the '90s" play for this performance season, "Equus" by Peter Shaffer deals with violence and the effect on its victims.

"We're looking for plays that deal with other issues like abortion and aging to use in the series," Housman said.

Phoenix hopes to tour within a 200-mile radius of Carbondale.

No contracts have been signed yet, but it is a new company and needs time to get its name recognized, Housman and Herbst said.

Crime should receive additional emphasis

THE FIVE BODIES that turned up near the University of Florida have caused a surge of fear to sweep across America's college campuses. More than ever, students have a need to feel safe.

But are University and Carbondale police meeting those needs?

A decision by the Campus Safety Fee Board to install four 911 emergency call boxes is a small step in the right direction.

THE FOUR BOXES ARE easy-to-use telephones that dispatch a police unit to that area immediately after the call.

The boxes, however, are not in the most strategic of locations.

Three boxes are located near the dorms on the east side of campus, and the other near Thompson Point.

But if you're in an emergency situation and you're close enough to use the call boxes, than you're close enough to go a few extra feet and call for help from the residence halls.

In fact, the residence halls are hooked up to the '911 system.

PERHAPS IF ADDITIONAL call boxes were installed in less-populated areas such as Thompson Woods or the Old Main Mall, their purpose would be better served.

Better yet, install some boxes where crime is the worst—off-campus in Carbondale.

Statistics show crime is twice as worse in Carbondale than on campus. More students spend their evenings on the Strip rather than wandering around campus.

Call boxes placed near the Strip, where most assaults occur, may help prevent possible crimes.

IN ADDITION TO THE CALL boxes, a campus watch program could also be implemented on campus.

Similar to the neighborhood watch system, this program could increase awareness by getting the students involved and help prevent crime at the same time.

Additional call boxes and programs may not rid the University of crime completely, but it can put out the message that we're fighting crime.

More news, more views

By John M. Andrist
 National Newspaper Association

This is National Newspaper Week, a good time to ask, "Who is the press, anyway?"

When it comes to the Bill of Rights it means all of us. When our founding fathers wrote the First Amendment to the Constitution they were intent on protecting the freedom of all Americans to speak and write as their conscience dictated, and they simply used the word "press" as a substitute for "write."

They were intent on protecting everyone's right to speak, write, worship, assemble, and demonstrate.

They understood—sometimes better than we understand—that to protect the rights of all of us, they had to protect the rights of each of us.

No other government has ever been willing to adopt a constitutional guarantee of personal liberty that is as absolute as our First Amendment.

Some people do abuse the right of free speech. Some publications do abuse the intent of free press guarantees. Some demonstrators go so far in abusing the right of protest that they burn flags.

But for 200 years we have been smart enough to realize that what we are protecting is more precious than the occasional abuse which we must tolerate.

All across America today reporters, editors, advertising professionals, circulation managers, and production people are working to assemble information—vital information we need so we can make important decisions including what to buy and where to buy it, where to vote and who to vote for, where to work and who to work for, even when and where to speak up, write up, and demonstrate.

The dedication of tens of thousands of working newspapermen and women helps to enlighten and brighten our lives.

Because of them, and because of you, America is a place where newspapers continue to provide more news and more views.

Parking lot behind Greek Row in need of more storage areas

I am a sophomore student living in Thompson Point. I purchased a green storage sticker for my car, enabling me to park in lot 59 behind Greek Row.

This lot is also for red and blue stickers. They have the entire lot to choose from and we have only one row. This is unfair.

The lot is large enough to accommodate all cars with red and blue stickers with room to spare.

However, if the empty parking space is too far away for them, they can park in a designated green spot that might be closer.

This means that when I come home at night, to a very limited number of parking spaces, I may be out of luck.

But hey, that's OK, I can park in lot 100, across campus, behind the Recreation Center.

I will then take my female self and hike across campus, alone, at night, in the dark. That is my only option.

The night safety van doesn't stop there.

Recently, however, campus intelligence added an unmarked, gravel lot behind lot 59. I thought my problems were solved.

Instead, I encountered a new battle. I received a $15 parking ticket, along with about 25 other people, for parking in this unmarked, practically empty gravel lot.

There is no sign what-so-ever designating any sticker parking. I even stayed within the green sticker row when I parked there.

I went to question the ticket. The parking division informed me it was for red and blue sticker parking only.

The lot is never even filled and clearly not posted. So I went to appeal the ticket and was denied.

This is completely unfair. I am hoping that green storage parking will be expanded into the gravel lot.

However, I am demanding that my ticket be reconsidered.

Issuing a ticket for a car parked in a "lot" with no posted signs is down right unjustifiable.

To this day the parking division has yet to post a sign identifying what the gravel lot is for. As a result, people are still ticketed daily.—Gwendolyn Coach, sophomore, business.

Forest preservation is everyone's duty

It is gratifying to read that a branch of our government has listened to the concerns of environmentalists with regard to the policy of "clear-cutting" in the Shawnee National Forest.

Until now, the Forest Service seemed to be favoring the logging companies, selling off the valuable trees at bargain prices without regard to the consequences.

It took some devoted people, lead by organizations such as the Regional Association of Concerned Environmentalists and Earth First! to put themselves on the line to save our natural resources.

But there are too many of us, like myself, who are ignorant of the issues involved — what the preservation of trees and forests mean to our region, not only for beauty and recreation but for the very survival of the balance of nature.

It has been hard to understand the harassment of government officials against citizens who are voicing their opposition against clear-cutting.

Granted, bureaucrats don't relish opposition, but we are a democracy proud of our openness and freedom of expression.

It is for that reason that the American Civil Liberties Union of Southern Illinois is holding an open meeting Oct. 17 at 7 p.m. to provide opportunities for citizens of our region to understand the issues.

The meeting, open to the public, will be held in the auditorium of the Lesar Law School.

Representatives of RACE and Earth First! will speak and Congressman Glen Poshard has been invited and will be present (unless the budget debate keeps Congress in session).

Preservation of our forests is not the concern only of environmentalists. We should be grateful to them that it is.

But, as ordinary citizens, that is our responsibility too. And it behooves us to learn more and support the natural resources of our planet for ourselves and our future generations.

The meeting ought to tell us something.—A.J. Auerbach, chair ACLU, Carbondale.

Recycling issue ignored in ink story

Soybean ink is what would make newspaper recycling a whole lot easier.

One program used by one corporation that owns a chain of newspapers turns old newsprint into animal bedding.

However, many farmers balk at this because most newspapers are printed with petroleum-based ink, which contains ingredients that are potentially harmful to animals.

Soybean-based ink would solve this problem, thereby letting farm animals use the bedding as they will.

The result is some old newspaper that can be composted and turned into fertilizer—sending the material back into the Earth and completing the recycling chain.

This whole issue was ignored by the DE's Oct. 4 article about how the College of Agriculture's newspaper is printed with soybean ink.

Big deal if some official only has a slight idea that the paper might be the first in the country to use soybean-based ink.

Is it really? What is needed is some broader coverage of the issue.

I seem to remember hearing something about the DE using soybean-based ink. Does it? Ask your managing editor or production supervisor.

Also, there are two student-produced and managed publications that use soybean-based ink. Satyagraha is one.

I won't mention the other because it gets enough recognition.

Maybe this letter isn't fair. The reporter did a fine job on writing an article about the ag newspaper.

But what she didn't realize is that the soybean ink angle as it pertains to that paper has been reported before.

She just needed editorial guidance to see the real issue at hand.—Curtis Winston, senior, music business and journalism.

Oil spill equipment sale attracts bargain hunters

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Thousands of people mobbed the world's largest garage sale Tuesday when auctioneers began their usual chant to sell Exxon oil spill cleanup equipment to the highest bidders.

"This is the largest liquidation sale ever conducted," an auctioneer announced over a loudspeaker to hordes of people spilling out of an airplane hangar to compete for every imaginable leftover from Exxon's two-year $2 billion Alaska oil spill cleanup.

Auctioneers began their rapid-fire rhythmic call in the freezing dawn, starting a four-day buying frenzy that has attracted people from the lower 48 states, Hawaii and Canada.

By the time the bidding started, more than 7,000 people had registered to bid in the largest auction ever conducted by the world's largest industrial auctioneer, said Rob Mackay of Ritchie Bros. Auctioneers International.

More people were registering as the auction began.

Printing presses were running 24 hours a day to keep up with the demand for the half-inch thick auction catalogs listing 4,844 lots of Exxon oil spill supplies going on the auction block, Mackay said.

Cars arriving an hour before the 8 a.m. auction start had to park one mile away and by the time the auction began, cars were lining the streets for miles around and shuttle buses picked up bidders headed for the crammed auction yard.

A dozen shippers set up shop to lure buyers who needed to ship their purchases out of Alaska.

By mid-morning, the event had become a two-ring circus, with simultaneous auctions going on inside the airplane hangar and outside.

There were predictions of high absenteeism this week at Alaska businesses.

"This is the biggest thing we've ever seen here," said Chuck Corey, who hoped to pick up some refrigerators for his refrigeration business. "It's going to be fun."

Most people came looking for a bargain.

"I'm in the steel business," quipped Manny Berman of Seattle. "I came looking for a steal."

"I came looking for some linens for my little hotel," said Leann McHone who runs a 39-room hotel in Homer, Alaska. She was one of a tiny handful of women among the thousands of men.

Pat Doran and his brother came to resupply their Stockton, Calif. tool firm.

Hank Westbrook and two partners from Crescent City, Calif., came looking for deals for their Del Norte Air Co.

"I'm open to everything," said Brian Craig of Edmonton,

Alberta, who spent 40 hours driving to Alaska with his friend Len Kody of Fort McMurray, who observed, "A lot of people have come a long way to get a good deal."

But bidding was competitive and bargain-hunters found fewer bargains than expected.

"People are paying more for some items than you would pay for retail," said Mark Thompson of Port Angeles, Wash., who with two business buddies from Crescent Timber was attending his 25th auction.

"But when you figure there are 5,000 people here, you're bound to find some pretty stupid people."

"Somebody just paid $9,500 for a box of tools worth two grand," said Mike Brandeberry of Ficks, Wash.

"It's auction fever."

"I don't know who needs 1,000 sheets and pillows, but that guy made out like a bandit," said Gene Ketchum, adding that most prices were high.

A forklift sold for $13,000. A pallet of four televisions went for $900, but some bidders paid more for other pallets of TVs, and others paid less.

A box of pistol cleaners, ammo boxes and handcuffs brought $300. Surveillance cameras and binoculars sold for $900.

Fire extinguishers were snapped up by the boxload and crates of pillows, sheets, blankets and mattress went fast.

times," Wagner said. "But newer employees haven't gone through it. Naturally they're more concerned than the veteran employees. This time it seemed to be more serious than it did those times in the past."

If the furlough had lasted until Tuesday, the effects would have been more costly, he said.

The portions the government takes out for retirement pay, insurance and taxes are figured around the number of days employees work, so a furlough during the week would create a bookkeeping nightmare, Wagner said.

Both Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, and Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, voted against the budget package worked out by Congress Monday.

In a statement released Tuesday, Simon said he did not vote for the package because the framework treats working families and older citizens unfairly.

"And it makes no sense to consider raising the gasoline tax while big oil companies are gouging consumers and reaping huge profits," Simon said.

Simon said he wants to shift the focus of the budget from defense to education.

Poshard said in a statement that he only was given promises but no information on the package when it was introduced.

"That's not good enough in my judgement on a $500 billion package," he said.

Poshard said he wants to know what the taxes are being raised for and where the money is going.

"I want to know whatever we're doing in the way of tax increases and spending cuts is going toward reducing this deficit and not just creating more spending programs," he said.

world." It came a day after Israeli soldiers killed at least 21 Arabs in Jerusalem.

"Words or denunciations are not enough to heal the wounds of the captive Jerusalem," Saddam's statement said. "What will heal the wounds is action to free (East Jerusalem) from (Israeli) captivity ... only quick action to revenge the Israeli massacres against the Palestinians can heal its wounds."

Israel captured East Jerusalem in the 1967 war.

Arab diplomats called Saddam's statement an attempt to refocus world opinion from his 2-month-old occupation of Kuwait to the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Sen. Terry Sanford, D-N.C., said the current program, which included a raise in the Social Security tax on employees and employers to 6.2 percent from 6.06 percent this year, was a "pay-now-and-pay-again-later retirement plan."

Moynihan said his proposal would mean a "immediate increase in take-home pay" for 132 million Americans.

After six years, a family with two incomes would have an increase in yearly income up to $1,544, he said.

There was no indication when the Senate would vote on the measure, nor if it has any chance of passage before congressional adjournment expected later this month.

The legislation was called up only hours after the Senate gave final approval to a five-year, $500 billion cut in the federal deficit, including $40 billion in fiscal 1991.

Moynihan's bill, however, would reduce revenues for the Social Security trust fund by $3.9 billion in fiscal 1991.

The bill also would reduce the fund by $110.6 billion over the five years.

Revenues paid to the Social Security trust fund, as well as several other trust funds, are calculated as income for the federal government and reduce the federal deficit.

Moynihan originally proposed a retroactive repeal of last January's increase in the Social Security tax rate and a reduction to 5.1 percent in January 1991, that would have slashed revenues by $38 billion.

The bill, however, reduces the tax rate to 6.06 percent, last year's level, in January of next year and then dwindles to 5.1 percent over six years.

At the same time, the taxable income increases from $54,300 to $55,500 in January and climbs to $85,500 in 1996.

The Moynihan bill would, at the end of 1995, have a reserve equal to at least 18 months of benefit payments.

"The essence of the question is that we now have a situation where the Social Security trust fund ... is now running and has been running a very large surplus and will continue to run a surplus for the next 30 years," he said, adding the surplus is growing by $1.3 billion a week.

Under the Moynihan bill, the tax rate would stay at 5.1 percent from 1996 through 2009 and then gradually climb to 8.1 percent in 2055. It would reach the current 6.2 percent in 2015.

Law professor battles tobacco companies

By John Patterson
Staff Writer

SIU law professor Donald W. Garner has battled tobacco companies for 20 years.

Garner said several cases that involve suits against tobacco companies currently are awaiting trial, but they only stand a slim chance.

Garner wrote a law review entitled "Cigarettes and Civil Liberties" that was published in 1980 by the University of Southern California. This review was heavily cited by a federal judge in the highly publicized Rose Cipollone suit several years ago against the Liggett tobacco company.

Rose Cipollone died after smoking for 30 years. The jury initially awarded $400,000 to her husband, but it was overturned on appeal because Cipollone had continued to smoke even after being warned of the dangers.

A Mississippi jury decision on Sept. 24 ruled the American Tobacco Co. was morally liable for the death of Nathan H. Horton, a 50-year-old carpenter/contractor and Pall Mall smoker for more than 30 years, but the company was not financially liable for his death.

"Basically the jury ruled that the tobacco company was liable for the death but not for money," Garner said.

"It's a remarkable verdict in that it says, 'a pox on both your houses,' but it is a lot better than the judge saying, 'You can't try the suit' or have the jury find the company innocent," Garner said.

The ruling was one of about 100 over the last 20 years that has found tobacco manufacturers not responsible for financial restitution to the victims family.

"The legal theory is unclear. The question is raised if the warning label satisfies the company's responsibility," Garner said.

"It is hard to prove that the individual was innocent in 1990. Juries are quite capable of being unsympathetic to individual smokers while at the same time being antagonistic toward tobacco companies," he said.

Even if the courts start to award damages to the victims' families, Garner said it would be 10 to 20 years of legislation before the cigarette industry would feel a pinch.

The cigarette industry earns about $35 billion a year.

Garner said the battle could turn out like the asbestos scare, with several hundred thousand court cases.

Religion

Peanuts, theology combined in book

By Leslie Colp
Staff Writer

"In the beginning, God created heaven and earth."

Forty years ago, Charles Schulz created the Peanuts comic strip.

And 25 years ago, Robert L. Short created "The Gospel According to Peanuts."

"I always tease (Short), and tell him that the only true theology is no theology," said Schulz in a telephone interview.

Short said the idea for a book combining religion and Peanuts came to him while he was studying theology at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. Professors would bring Peanuts comic strips to class to help explain some of the topics they were discussing.

"I began reading Peanuts religiously," Short said. "Please pardon the pun."

Short is celebrating the 25th anniversary of his first book with the publication of "Short Meditations on the Bible and Peanuts."

In this book, Short attempts to answer questions concerning the Bible and church using Peanuts comic strips.

"It's furnishing them with a visual aid," he said. "Theology can be a murky subject."

In one part of his book, Short says the best thing people can do for themselves and others is know the Bible. He uses the scripture of Matthew 22:29, which states,

"Jesus answered them, 'How wrong you are! It is because you don't know the Scriptures of God's Power.'"

Short uses down-to-earth language and a comic strip featuring Snoopy and Woodstock to explain the passage.

"When Jesus made this statement to the Sadducees," Short writes, "they weren't discussing little questions. They were discussing some really big ones."

Short said Sunday School teachers have used his books to help with their lessons. They also have been used seriously by adults, he said. Some people told him their ministers quote his books in sermons.

Schulz, however, does not create comic strips especially for Short's books.

"The books are totally his," Schulz said.

But religion is not an unfamiliar subject to Schulz.

He has created Peanuts comic strips with religious themes since the strip began. Schulz said religion is a little less obvious in the strips now than when the strip began.

"Some people think comic strips are a low form of art, and religion should never be mentioned in a comic strip," Schulz said.

Short, too, has received some criticism: for mixing the Peanuts and religion in his books.

"Even the title of the book offended some people," Short said.

Service at lake honors 13th-century preacher

By Leslie Colp
Staff Writer

Shimmering candlelight shone on the faces of gatherers at a prayer service in honor of St. Francis of Assisi Friday evening at Campus Lake.

"Francis' extraordinary gift was his humility," said Sister Kate Reid, director of the Newman Catholic Student Center as she began the service.

"It was this gift that made him such an effective peacemaker. Francis fearlessly preached without compromise, but he preached with humility."

The 13th-century saint was the son of a wealthy merchant. According to history, however, his love for people — rich or poor, sick or healthy, caused tension with his father. Ultimately, Francis renounced his inheritance to spread the word of Christ.

He spent the next part of his life as a preacher and a beggar, and took care of people with leprosy.

Throughout the service, blessings were performed for the things St. Francis thought were important. These things include the Earth, flowers, animals, water and people.

Guitar and flute was played as the gatherers watched a liturgical dance symbolizing St. Francis' life.

When the blessings and the dance were completed, the candles were extinguished and the gatherers were given time to think.

"It (the service) allowed us to enter into his (St. Francis') spirit in a prayerful and reflective manner," said Bob Shearn, campus minister at the Newman Center. "It helps people think about the need for peace-making."

The Newman Center sponsored the special service for St. Francis.

Bald Knob to re-enact olden days

By Leslie Colp
Staff Writer

Bald Knob Cross will give visitors a taste of the past this weekend when they converge on Alto Pass for the Old-Fashioned Demonstration Days.

Demonstrations for making apple butter and making old-fashioned chairs from wood will be done.

"We usually have a blacksmith and a demonstration on how a cross-cut saw is used," said Ann West, member of the Bald Knob Cross Christian Foundation Board.

Visitors will be entertained by the New Sounds Trio at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday. The Zeigler Christian Singers will perform at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, followed by Linda Waller of Carbondale at 2:30 p.m.

Anyone can sell crafts or perform demonstrations. Registration is not necessary, said Lorene Lingle, secretary of the Bald Knob Cross Christian Foundation Board.

"We'd be more than happy to have them," she said.

Barbecue and funnel cakes will be sold to raise funds for the upkeep of the Cross.

"There will be plenty of good food and good fellowship," West said.

Made of porcelain, the cross towers 111 feet at the top of Bald Knob Mountain and weighs nearly 200 tons.

Old-Fashioned Demonstration Days will begin at 11 a.m. and conclude at 6 p.m. this Saturday and Sunday.

Episcopalian leader urges peaceful resolution with Iraq

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presiding Bishop Edmund Browning, spiritual leader of the nation's 2.5 million Episcopalians — including President Bush — said Monday church members should demand a peaceful solution to the crisis with Iraq.

"This is not a time for propaganda but for sober truth," Browning said in a 2 1/2-page statement to be conveyed to the church's bishops and to Bush.

In a series of rhetorical questions, Browning warned a war over cheap oil would not be justified.

Browning's statement comes amid reports, based on administration leaks to some reporters, that Bush is increasingly frustrated by the stalemate in the showdown with Iraq and giving increased attention to a possible military solution to the confrontation.

In the statement, Browning asked Episcopalians to support "cooperative and peaceful solutions" to the Gulf crisis.

Browning was sharply critical of the propaganda efforts in the United States that have resulted in the comparison of Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein to Hitler and the negative stereotyping of Arabs as a result of the crisis.

"Persist the misplaced national pride which refuses to recognize the face of Christ in your brother and sister in Iraq and the Middle East," Browning said.

Troops get unusual greeting

AN AIRBASE IN SAUDI ARABIA (UPI) — "Goood Morning Saudi Arabia!"

With loud greeting, Navy Chief Petty Officer Richard Yanku opened the Armed Forces Radio and Television Service live broadcasts to the estimated 175,000 U.S. Forces in Saudi Arabia for Operation Desert Shield.

His intro was a knock off of the movie "Good Morning Vietnam" with comedian Robin Williams that told the story of AFRTS disc jockey Adrian Cronauer's struggle to get political humor about the unpopular Vietnam War past military brass, and the intro was an absolute natural here.

"I think everyone was expecting it. It would have been a let-down if I hadn't done it," said Yanku, a veteran of 17 years with the Navy and now stationed at Virginia Beach, Va.

"I haven't spoken to Robin Williams but I'm sure if I had he'd say 'Sure, why not, go for it,'" said Yanku, who immediately started getting requests when he announced the request line telephone number.

The first call was a congratulatory one from the broadcasting service run by Aramco, the U.S.-Saudi oil operation.

The second came from a physician who identified himself only as Dr. Barabee, who wanted to hear something by Neil Diamond, said he'd been in Vietnam and added, "We're just waiting for this. Thanks a lot."

Since Sept. 13, the soldiers have been able to get in some areas the direct feed from AFRS headquarters, without any local live entertainment.

Baghdad Betty and Bob have had nothing on Armed Forces Radio.

Iraq's official Radio Baghdad, which bills itself as "The voice of peace," is heard in Saudi Arabia on shortwave that fades in and out, making the audio quality marginal.

"Betty and Bob" take turns reading the lines in between every three or four songs — most of them rock and roll tunes or numbing elevator music from 15 to 20 years ago — and declaring: "This is the voice of peace, Baghdad Radio."

In contrast, after his opening selection of "Rock the Casbah" by The Clash, Yanku moved through a series of popular rock and country tunes, including Pat Benetar's "Hit Me With Your Best Shot" at the request of a British journalist among reporters taken to the air base to witness the first show.

Yanku and three other broadcasters will work out of a trailer just seven feet high and wide and a dozen feet long, with an air conditioner jutting out the side to keep the sensitive electronics cool.

They are, for the moment, hooked to a 1,500-watt transmitter that will cover a major concentration of troops in Saudi Arabia and soon hope to have four such transmitters operating to cover the bulk of the troops.

The broadcasters have been given a list of topics the Saudis consider sensitive and wish to be kept off the air.

USG to wrap up election results, seat new senators

By Karen Radius
Staff Writer

The Undergraduate Student Government will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center Renaissance Room. The old senate will ratify the election results and the new senators will be seated. USG welcomes the student body to attend the meeting.

Referm Party senators include Brian Spinner, Loie Morris, Steve Langhoff, Amit Sricastaza, Maurice Bissellon, Debbie Howard and Tom Carey.

Police Blotter

A 21-year-old Carbondale man was arrested and charged with armed violence, reckless conduct, unlawful use of weapon by a felon and aggravated assault in connection with a shooting that took place on the city's east side Monday evening, a spokesman for the Carbondale Police Department said.

Kevin A. Jenkins, 1003 Whitney St., was arrested after allegedly firing several shots at Eric Jones, 23, of Carbondale, the spokesman said. Jenkins fled from the scene, 404 S. Marion, on foot and was soon found by police.

Jenkins was taken to the Jackson County Jail where he was scheduled to appear before a judge on Tuesday, the spokesman said. No injuries or property damage was reported and an investigation continues.

Happy Birthday SIUE

By Eric Reyes
and Christina Hall
Staff Writers

SIUC's sister school, SIUE, celebrates its 25th anniversary at Edwardsville today.

Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit said the SIUE campus has come a long way in its 25 years. Pettit will speak today along with SIUE President Earl Lazerson.

Pettit said goals for SIUE's future include building a first rate undergraduate program.

SIUE is a very important service to the community and a leader in economic activities in the region, Pettit said.

In 1957, SIU began offering classes in "residence centers" in Alton and East St. Louis for 1,800 students.

In 1965, the campus moved to Edwardsville.

The campus buildings in Alton and East St. Louis were temporary facilities being leased. In 1960, a plan was developed by the SIU Board of Trustees to place a campus in Edwardsville.

Ground was broken at the Edwardsville campus in 1963 and two years later in September, the Lovejoy Library was the first building to open at SIUE.

Currently there are 11,000 students and 600 faculty members using 10 major academic buildings.

Board bans dead voters in local city

EAST ST. LOUIS (UPI) — This year, the dead will not be able to vote in East St. Louis.

The election board in the impoverished Mississippi River city said it has dropped 266 names from the city's voter rolls because the people are dead.

A St. Louis Post-Dispatch investigation had turned up at least 270 corpses on the voter rolls. The people had died in hospitals across the river in Missouri but had remain registered in their hometown.

The newspaper reported 27 ballots had been cast in the names of those dead people since 1981. Besides the dead people voting, the paper also found registered voters who were listed as living in vacant lots and abandoned buildings in the city.

James Lewis, executive director of the city's election board, told the newspaper in Tuesday's editions that two of the deceased were not removed from the voter rolls because they were not registered to vote in this election.

After revelations first came out indicating dead people were voting, a federal prosecutor announced he would investigate the incident.

Also, the State Board of Elections has asked the Illinois Department of Public Health to match its health records with the city's voter rolls.

However, state officials said they do not think they will have that process completed until after the Nov. 6 election since Tuesday is the deadline for removal.

There probably should be only 27,829 adults allowed to vote, the newspaper said.

Sexual Harassment Policy and Overview of the Complaint Resolution Procedures for Faculty, Administrative/Professional Staff, Civil Service Employees, and Students

Revised 1989

Effective March 15, 1989

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

University Policy on Sexual Harassment

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale is committed to creating and maintaining a community in which students, faculty, and staff can work together in an atmosphere free of all forms of harassment, exploitation, or intimidation. Sexual harassment, like harassment on the basis of race or religion, is a form of discrimination expressly prohibited by law. It is a violation of Title VII of the federal 1964 Civil Rights Act and Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972 and a civil rights violation of the Illinois Human Rights Act.

In addition to being illegal, sexual harassment runs counter to the objectives of the University. When people feel coerced, threatened, intimidated or otherwise pressured by others into granting sexual favors, or are singled out for derision or abuse because of their gender, their academic and work performance is liable to suffer. Such actions violate the dignity of the individual and the integrity of the University as an institution of learning. Academic freedom can exist only when every person is free to pursue ideas in a non-threatening, non-coercive atmosphere of mutual respect. Sexual harassment is harmful not only to the persons involved but also to the entire University community.

The university will take whatever action is needed to prevent, stop, correct, or discipline behavior that violates this policy. Disciplinary action may include, but is not limited to, oral or written warnings, demotion, transfer, suspension, or dismissal for cause.

Definitions and Examples

Sexual harassment is defined as unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, verbal or other expressive behaviors, or physical conduct commonly understood to be of a sexual nature, when:

submission to, or toleration of, such conduct on or off campus is made, either explicitly or implicitly, a term or condition of instruction, employment, or participation in other University activities;

submission to, or rejection of, such conduct is used as a basis for employment or for academic decisions or assessments affecting the individual's status as an employee or student; or such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's status as a student or an employee or creates an intimidating, hostile, or offensive work or educational environment.

Sexual harassment may involve the behavior of a person of either sex toward a person of the opposite or the same sex. Examples of behavior that would be considered sexual harassment include, but are not limited to, the following:

physical assault;

direct or implied threats that submission to sexual advances will be a condition of employment, work status, promotion, grades, or letters of recommendation;

a pattern of conduct, annoying or humiliating in a sexual way, that includes comments of a sexual nature and/or sexually explicit statements, questions, jokes, or anecdotes;

a pattern of conduct that would annoy or humiliate a reasonable person at whom the conduct was obviously directed. Such conduct includes, but is not limited to gestures, facial expressions, speech, or physical contact understood to be sexual in nature or which is repeated after the individual signifies that the conduct is perceived to be offensively sexual.

Consenting Relationships

Consenting romantic and sexual relationships between a faculty member and a student or between a supervisor and an employee, while not expressly forbidden, are discouraged. Taking note of the respect and trust accorded a professor by a student and of the power exercised by the professor, a relationship between a faculty member and a student should be considered one of professional and client, in which sexual relationships are inappropriate. A similar relationship exists between a supervisor and an employee. The power differential inherent in such relationships compromises the subordinate's free choice. A faculty member or supervisor who enters into a sexual relationship with a student or an employee, where a professional power differential obviously exists, must realize that if a charge of sexual harassment is subsequently lodged, the burden will be on the faculty member or supervisor to prove immunity on grounds of mutual consent.

Relationships between a graduate student and an undergraduate, when the graduate student has some supervisory responsibility for the undergraduate, belong in this category. Among other relationships included are those between a student or employee and an administrator, coach, adviser, program director, counselor, or residential staff member who has supervisory responsibility for that student or employee.

Protection for the Complainant and Others

No student, faculty member, or staff member may be subjected to any form of reprisal for seeking information on sexual harassment, filing a sexual harassment complaint, or serving as a witness in a proceeding involving a complaint of sexual harassment. Any retaliatory action will be a violation of this policy and will be grounds for disciplinary action. Individuals who believe they have been subjected to reprisal for their participation in a sexual harassment complaint may use the procedures of this policy to seek redress.

Protection of the Accused

Accusations of sexual harassment are grievous and can have serious and far-reaching effects on the careers and lives of accused individuals. Allegations of sexual harassment must be made in good faith and not out of malice. Individuals who believe they have been falsely accused of sexual harassment may use the procedures of this policy to seek redress.

Responsibility of Supervisors

Supervisory personnel are charged with maintaining an atmosphere that discourages sexual harassment and ensuring that the University policy is enforced in their areas. Supervisors are directed to discourage all behavior that might be considered sexual harassment and to respond promptly to sexual harassment complaints. University officials who knowingly condone incidents of sexual harassment or instances of reprisal for reporting such complaints will be subject to disciplinary action.

Complaint Resolution Office

The President has assigned responsibility for the administration of this policy to Personnel Services and Labor Relations and has named its Executive Director as the complaint resolution officer for the University. The complaint resolution officer will disseminate the policy to the University community, devise education and training programs, maintain centralized records of sexual harassment complaints, oversee the grievance process, coordinate the resolution of complaints, and evaluate the effectiveness of the complaint resolution procedures and related educational programs.

For further information about the sexual harassment policy and complaint resolution procedures, you may contact one of the Sexual Harassment Information Centers: Affirmative Action 536-6518; Counseling Center 453-5371; International Programs and Services 453-5774; Ombudsman 453-2411; Personnel Services and Labor Relations 536-3369; Women's Services 453-3655; Women's Studies 453-5141; and the Graduate School 453-4540.

An individual may initiate a charge with either the Illinois Department of Human Rights and/or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Such a charge must be filed within 180 days of the alleged act of discrimination or sexual harassment.

Miami expected to join Big East

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) — The University of Miami's football power looking to strengthen its basketball program, is expected Wednesday to accept a bid to join the Big East Conference.

Big East Commissioner Mike Trangese extended the invitation Monday to Edward Foote, the university president, and Sam Jankovich, the athletic director. They said they would submit the matter to a vote of the 55-member board of trustees Wednesday. A majority vote is required.

Trangese and other Big East officials spent most of Monday visiting the campus.

Instead of flying directly back to Boston as planned Monday night, Trangese chose to spend Tuesday with friends in Palm Beach to be on hand for Wednesday's vote.

"I feel good about it," he said. "I would be very disappointed if it didn't work out."

Foote said he would not disclose his recommendation until the meeting.

"I have a board of 50-some members, and they are all strong-minded community leaders," he said. "They will make the ultimate decision. I will do everything I can to guide them with information and a recommendation."

Miami also had been considering joining the Atlantic Coast Conference, but Commissioner Gene Corrigan said there would be no consideration of further expansion until next year, and he senses conference members are content with the current setup. Florida State became the ACC's ninth member last month.

The Big East numbers only Pittsburgh, Syracuse and Boston College as Division I-A football schools, not enough to form a viable football conference.

Miami's outstanding baseball team will remain an independent if the bid is accepted, with a heavy scheduling bias toward the Big East.

The top Saluki qualifier for the Lady Kat was junior Anne Childress who is coming off an 18th place tie out of 73 golfers last week at the Memphis State Classic.

"I should have a good tournament, Kentucky has a good course and I usually do well there," Childress said.

The other Saluki qualifiers include sophomore Tracey Pace, sophomore Kim Haywood, junior Deborah Minter and junior Amy Van Patten who has sophomore eligibility.

The Lady Kat will be the debut tournament for Van Patten who qualified for competition for the first time this week.

"I'm not really nervous about this being my first tournament," Van Patten said. "I'm more excited and motivated and I look forward to it."

It is questionable whether Minter will be able to compete because she has been ill. If Minter does not play, Van Patten will take her place and freshmen Leslie Brunk will be bumped into the lineup.

Junior Gina Giacone who has been a mainstay on the women's golf team this season is out of commission this weekend with a back injury.

Last season the Salukis finished fourth out of 17 teams at the Lady Kat. Salukis on this year's team who competed in the Lady Kat last season include Childress who finished tied for fifth and Minter who tied for 53rd.

Childress also scored her career low score for a single round last season at the Lady Kat with a 76.

BRISCOE, from Page 20

the All-Tournament honor at the NIU Invitational.

"She has worked very hard," Hagemeyer said. "A lot of the time she doesn't get the recognition for what she contributes to the team. She had great all-around performances."

Briscoe said there's more to the game than getting the most recognition.

"It takes more than one person, so I don't see it (getting recognition)," Briscoe said. "There's so many of us, so I'm not going to play the best and be the best player for every game."

But the pressure to be one of the best is always at Briscoe's side. Briscoe said Hagemeyer makes her work hard to continually improve her game.

"If she's on me, I know I have to work hard because she expects a lot of me," Briscoe said. "Especially this year, more than other years, because I'm in a different position so I try to do what she's trying to teach us."

Briscoe said lately she has been focusing on her defense in practices.

"I really concentrate on defense," Briscoe said. "I think that offense will come as I practice, but defense I have to work on because it's not been my best in the past."

Briscoe got started in volleyball when her best friend in grade school talked her into trying out for the volleyball team.

"I was playing soccer at the time and I was sick of it," Briscoe said. "I liked volleyball and I've been playing ever since."

The Salukis begin Gateway Conference play this weekend against Illinois and Indiana State. Briscoe said she can't determine what conference play will be like this year until after the weekend.

"I want to see how we play when we start getting into the conference," Briscoe said. "We have had a tough preseason schedule so it's hard to say how we're going to be matched up in the conference."

Even so, Briscoe has high hopes for conference play this year.

"I can see us up there," Briscoe said. "If we're going to Gateway (Tournament), we're not going to be fooled. We're going to get up there higher this year."

Foyt making quick recovery

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A.J. Foyt is recovering faster than expected from leg injuries suffered in a crash last month and should return to racing in time to seek his 34th straight Indianapolis 500 start, doctors said Tuesday.

Foyt, a four-time Indy winner, should be walking on crutches by Monday. If so, he will be released from Methodist Hospital to continue rehabilitation at home in Houston. Doctors said Foyt probably will not recover in time to attempt a 26th straight Daytona 500 start next February, but he might be back in time to open the Indy-car season and should be ready for Indy.

"We're telling him six months but that leaves room for improvement," said Terry Trammell, an orthopedic surgeon at Methodist and Indy-car racing's director of medical services. "He's going at a rate considerably faster than expected for his injuries. When you consider he's got a few more miles on him, his rate is remarkable."

Foyt sat in a special wheelchair with his legs supported as he spoke to reporters in his first appearance since the Sept. 23 crash at Elkhart Lake, Wis., in the Havoline 200. He suffered a broken left foot and heel, a dislocated left knee and right ankle.

Retirement is not a consideration for Foyt, who turns 56 next January. He owns the Indy-car career victory mark of 67 but has not won a race since 1981. Becoming competitive again remains his ultimate target despite some who say he should quit.

"My goal is to be ready and be sharp before I get back to it," Foyt said. "It has been an awful lot of pain. I'm in pain. It's going to be a long, hard road with a hill to climb. A lot of people are kicking me when I'm down, but I've got something to prove. When I feel like I want to (retire), it should be my decision."

A brake pedal bracket failure caused Foyt's car to veer off the course at 185 mph into a soil embankment, with his broken legs pinned under a mass of twisted metal and dirt.

"I guess I thought I was in 'The Dukes of Hazard' or something because I went flying through the air," Foyt said. "I knew I was in trouble. I just can't believe we didn't have a safety fence there for as fast as we're moving. They had a little sand trap but hell I went over that. It was like a hydroslide." Foyt said that right after the crash, he feared his legs might have to be amputated. Doctors said later that was never a consideration, but Foyt credits fast work by Trammell and the rescue team with saving at least the usefulness of his leg.

"I just don't think I would have had a left leg if not for the doctor and the crew taking me out of the car," Foyt said. "I felt the heat and smelled the brush fire and knew I had a full load of fuel. That's when I tried to get out of the car. I thought the fire was going to get me. Finally I had such severe pain I didn't give a damn if the car caught on fire."

A 1991 Lola is already on order and Foyt expects to improve his results next season after a year of work with the Chevrolet engine that has dominated the series this season. Foyt also feels he can become more competitive on the road courses as well as oval circuits like Indy.

"With the team we had, I thought we were holding our own pretty damn good," he said. "We were just starting to get together. I had a lot of catching up to do and still have a lot of to do."

Visiting other hospital patients and receiving letters from fans and children have helped Foyt realize how fortunate he has been.
